

Glenmark to launch Potassium Phosphates injection in US

The drug is indicated to to treat or prevent hypophosphatemia (low blood phosphorus) in adults and pediatric patients.

Mumbai: Glenmark Pharmaceuticals has announced to launch Potassium Phosphates injection bulk package vials in the US.

Potassium Phosphates injection are indicated to to treat or prevent hypophosphatemia (low blood phosphorus) in adults and pediatric patients.

Potassium Phosphates injection are indicated to to treat or prevent hypophosphatemia (low blood phosphorus) in adults and pediatric patients.

The Mumbai-based drugmaker will begun distribution this month.

Commenting on the launch, Marc Kikuchi, President & Business Head, North America , Glenmark said, “We look forward to growing our portfolio of products within the institutional channel with the upcoming launch of Potassium Phosphates injection and strengthen our commitment to bring quality and affordable alternatives to market for patients in need with each injectable launch.”

News Source:

<https://pharma.economicstimes.indiatimes.com/news/drug-approvals-and-launches/glenmark-to-launch-potassium-phosphates-injection-in-us/129610083>